Rick Pruett is the executive director of Ventana by Buckner, Dallas' first high-rise senior living community, scheduled to open in mid-2019. Throughout his career, Pruett has built his passion and vision for senior living, as well as a solid base of experience, strategic planning expertise and management as a senior living professional.

Pruett has worked in senior living since 1998 and has supported the work of multiple campuses in several states, helping open new communities and reposition, refinance and improve quality standards for existing communities.

He previously served as vice president and director of operations management for Life Care Services for five years. Prior to that, he served as vice president of management services for Greystone Communities in Irving, Texas, for seven years. In addition, Pruett served as executive director/administrator for three senior living communities from 1998-2006.

Pruett earned a Master of Health Administration degree from Warren University and is a member of the American College of Healthcare Executives. He also earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Southwestern Assemblies of God University. He and his wife Lindy have two sons, Trey and Braden.

“Ventana by Buckner is the vision of distinguished members experiencing a signature lifestyle in an incredible 21st Century setting.”
